Subject: Legal Careers with The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency
- United States Department of the Treasury Bureau

Dear NNABA Members:

We would like to take this opportunity to introduce you to The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), an independent bureau of the U.S. Department of the Treasury. The OCC charters, regulates, and supervises all national banks and federal savings associations as well as federal branches and agencies of foreign banks. Our agency is consistently ranked among the best places to work in the federal government. The OCC was particularly well rated for strategic management, training and development, and diversity. The OCC requires forward-thinking, creative, and intellectually rigorous legal staff. Attorneys for the OCC:

- develop innovative precedential opinions on contemporary issues in the financial services industry;
- enforce national bank and federal savings association compliance through administrative actions;
- develop banking regulations and legislation to modernize banking law;
- handle international banking issues and negotiate international supervisory arrangements;
- and
- represent the Comptroller in litigation.

The OCC's Honors Attorney Program is a developmental program, of one year, followed by full-time employment. The one-year program provides attorneys with substantive legal assignments, exposing them to the breadth and depth of the practice groups within the law department. The practice of law at the OCC involves all aspects of national bank and federal savings association organization and operations, and in this sense is truly a "federal" corporate law practice. In addition, the OCC is one of the few agencies that litigates its own cases in the federal courts.

The OCC's Honors Attorney Program is designed for law students expecting to graduate within one year, and recent law school graduates (within last three years) completing judicial clerkship programs or private practice with experience relevant of our practice areas. To learn more careers at the OCC, please visit our website at <https://careers.occ.gov/careers/index-careers.html>.

We invite you to seriously consider a career at the OCC. If a legal career at OCC is something that excites you, you can apply directly to the OCC by submitting your application no later than August 31, 2022. Please review the criteria and application process detailed at <https://careers.occ.gov/careers/explore/business-and-operations/legal/honors-attorney.html> for the OCC Honors Attorney Program.

Please contact me if you or they have questions about a legal career with the OCC.

Warmly,
